

Márton Gyetvai graduated as an Actuary from the Corvinus University of Budapest in 2017 and started his PhD studies at the same institute in the same year, at the Doctoral School of General and Quantitative Economics. In November 2017 he joined the Mechanism Design Research Group at the Institute of Economics, Hungarian Academy of Sciences. His research interest lies in the fields of Combinatorial optimization.